Dive Apparel Label Dive Junkie goes Military!

Ready to take your diving skills to the next level? Think you have what it takes to join our elite team of divers? If so, we at the Underwater Recon Team (URT) want you on our side.

You will be trained for reconnaissance missions and surveillance operations. You will be sent into enemy territory to gather intelligence on enemy defence systems and infiltration options. You will engage the enemy in close-quarter combat where necessary, and take part in hostage and POW rescue.

Be Part of the Underwater Recon Team. Now recruiting. All applications will be classified as TOP SECRET.

Singapore dive apparel label Dive Junkie takes their 2006 collection to a new level with this design — URT — which combines the suspense of a covert military operation with the excitement of diving. And the URT is just one of the many novel designs created by Dive Junkie.

Its entire range of T-shirts can be viewed and purchased via its online store (www.divejunkie.com.sg), and are physically available in authorized retailers in Singapore, Malaysia, Australia and USA. (Look out for them at the Asia Dive Expo 2006 too!)

As with the rest of the Dive Junkie range, the URT T-shirts are produced using superior 100% fully-combed cotton fabric. Lycra-ribbed collars ensure that they stay in shape after repeated washes while reinforced stitching at the shoulders and sleeves increase resistance against wear and tear.

Established and based in Singapore since 2003, Dive Junkie creates unique designs that reflect the adventurous and carefree spirit of divers worldwide.

So, is the URT for real? We're not telling...
